Our School Art Exhibition

Last Friday, our school held an art exhibition in the library. Students from different classes showed their paintings, photographs, and paper models. The exhibition was part of our school's Arts Week, and everyone could visit it during the lunch break. My class prepared a large picture of our town. We used watercolors to paint the river, the market, and the old bridge. Lan took photographs of local people, while Minh made a model of a small house from recycled paper. Our art teacher helped us arrange the works on tables and walls. Many students and teachers visited the exhibition. They wrote short comments on cards next to their favorite works. The exhibition helped us see how creative our classmates were. We hope to organize another one next year, perhaps in the school hall.
