The Cave of the Crystals

The Mexican state of Chihuahua is home to one of the (1).....(NATURE) wonders of the world - The Cave of the Crystals. Discovered (2).....(ACCIDENT) in 2000 by miners drilling a tunnel, the cave lies about 350m below the surface of the Naica Mountains. It contains over 170 of the largest natural crystals ever found — one of them measures about 11m and weighs more than 5500kg. The (3).....(CREATE) of these large crystals probably began as a result of volcanic (4).....(ACTIVE) 26 million years ago. Tiny crystals were formed and, over the centuries, the extreme heat in the caves has encouraged the (5)..... (GROW) of these giant structures. The crystals look cool and ice—like, but don't be fooled! Due to the (6)..... (PRESENT) of hot springs nearby, the temperature is 44°C. It is so hot that visitors have to wear (7)..... (PROTECT) suits and carry backpacks of ice-cooled air to (8)..... (SURE) they can survive for just a few minutes.

In the Naica Mountains there are three other (9).....(INCREDIBLE) beautiful caves. One contains magnificent crystals shaped like candles, and the current (10)..... (BELIEVE) amongst scientists is that these have developed over just the last twenty years. There are probably even more (11).....(FASCINATE) caves waiting to be found under Chihuahua's Naica Mountains.
