1 A recent newspaper story reported that Britain's cruise ship travellers are becoming increasingly hostile to the practice of tipping.

a According to an article, tipping is getting less popular with cruise passengers.
b The newspapers have suggested that a large number of passengers hate tipping.

2 The rise of more dining venues and styles has represented a major change in the cruise tradition of tipping.

a The practice of tipping on cruises is changing because of the larger variety of eating arrangements.
b The increase of larger dining venues and methods has meant a big adaptation of cruise tipping traditions.

3 Cruise passengers also resent the implication that they should, beyond paying for a cruise to begin with, further be required to supplement crew salaries.

a Cruise passengers don't like being accused of not paying enough to the cruise personnel in the first place.
b Cruise ship travellers do not like the idea that on an already expensive holiday they are also expected to contribute to the staff's wages.
