

Match each key word with its definition array

reshape

numpy

transpose

to change an element's shape by changing the number of rows and columns to change the rows to columns and the columns to rows data structure that stores elements of the same data type library for data structure and scientific calculations