

Demonstrative pronouns & demonstrative adjectives

When this, these, that, those are used as adjectives they modify nouns and they are called demonstrative adjectives. When they are used alone, they are called demonstrative pronouns. For example:

Demonstrative adjective I have this jacket.

Demonstrative pronoun I have this.

Remember

We use this for singular and near things:

This white shirt

We use these for plural and near things:

These white shirts

We use that for singular and far things:

That black hat

We use those for plural and far things:

Those black hats

Complete the sentences with this, these, that or those.

1)

are glasses.

2)

are cups.

3)

are notebooks.

4)

is a book.

5)

are keys.

6)

is a box.

7)

is a table

and 8)

is a chair.

By Karina V. September, 2021.