Posts about the Future

Lorena Jones: I plan to be a journalist when I finish my career. This summer I'm going to work for a newspaper in my town. The paper has won many awards for its excellent reporting. Next year, I'll have had a lot of experience, so I'm planning to write for my school's online magazine.

Sam Phillips: My goal is to become famous one day. I don't want to be a famous singer or a movie star. I want to be famous for creating computer apps. I'm going to move to Los Angeles and start my own software business. I'll be famous in the computer world.

Alexa King: I want to break a world record for running. Thanks to my mother, I'm a pretty good runner. She was in the Olympics in 1992 and 1996. I've been running with her since I was young. I'm on the school track team now, and I've already broken a lot of school records!

John Jacobs: I predict that people will travel in space in the future. They'll pay money to take space flights. By the time I'm an adult, it will have been more than 50 years since people visited the moon for the first time. If people can travel to the moon or Mars, I'll be signing up for sure.

Alicia Spencer: I don't know what I want to be when I grow up, but I know I want to travel before I decide on a career. After high school, I plan to go to South America for a year. My cousin lives in Colombia, and I can stay with her. I'll be speaking Spanish in no time. I think that will be a good skill to have no matter what I decide to do when I get home.
