VOCABULARY airports

Last summer, I flew to New York with my boyfriend to visit some friends. The flight left from ¹Terminal 1, so my brother dropped us outside the building. We went inside and looked for the ²luggage carousel to take us upstairs to ³D. We picked up our boarding passes at the ⁴check-in desk. Then we did some shopping. After that, we made our way to the ⁵gate to board our plane. We had a good flight, but we were very tired when we landed at JFK Airport. There was a long queue at ⁶passport control, and they asked us a lot of questions at Immigration. Finally, we went to ⁷Baggage Reclaim to pick up our bags. We needed a ⁸trolley this time because of all our suitcases. Nobody stopped us at ⁹Customs, so we went straight to ¹⁰Arrivals, where our friends were waiting for us.

The World's Biggest Airport

The world's busiest airport today is in the USA. Nearly 54 million passengers pass through Atlanta International Airport every year. However, by the end of the next decade there's going to be a new airport even bigger and busier than Atlanta. The new airport is going to be in the capital of China: Beijing.

Beijing already has two airports. The first is Beijing Capital, where an extra terminal was built for the 2008 Olympic Games. The second is Nanyuan Airport, which is mainly used by military planes. Just over 37 million passengers passed through Beijing Capital Airport last year, making it the second busiest after Atlanta. But the current airport is not big enough for all the Chinese passengers who want to travel by plane. This is why the government is going to build a new one.

The new airport is going to be in the suburb of Daxing, in the south of the city. Daxing is about an hour's drive from the city centre. The government is going to extend Beijing's Metro so that passengers can reach it more easily. There are also plans for a high-speed train line. The airport is going to have eight runways for commercial flights, and a ninth runway for military use. This is going to make it the biggest and the busiest airport in the world.
