PREPOSITIONAL VERBS

Let's learn!

What is a preposition?

Prepositions are the little words that connect other words in a sentence. They can help describe positions of objects, the time or the way an action is done.

Show me examples!

Take off your jacket.
Try on those trainers.
Put it next to the door.
Get up and go out!

What is a prepostional verb?

Verbs are action words.
In the previous examples, take, try, put, get and go are the verbs.

Prepositional verbs are a combination of verb + preposition. Together, they make a new 'prepositional verb'.

Try these...

Move the black verbs to complete these prepositional verbs:

check	_____ down in bed
turn	_____ in at the airport
lie	_____ off the television
get	_____ on a T-shirt
wash	_____ up the plates
stay	_____ on a plane
try	_____ up late

You can do it!

Now, choose the correct preposition:

This morning, I was getting ___ the train when I saw the clock; it was already 9am! This morning, I tried ___ a shirt but it was dirty. I was washing ___ my breakfast bowl when I heard the bus arrive. I left so quickly I forgot to turn ___ the light. I shouldn't stay ___late at night!

LIVEWORKSHEETS