Listen to the sentences. Some have pronunciation mistakes.

- If the sentence is correct, leave the box empty.
- If the sentence is wrong, write the word or words separated by a dash with the incorrect pronunciation.

1	2
3	4
5	6
7	8
9	10

1. The author tried to get people to follow his tips, but things can get confusing when we are very technical.
2. We already linked the data to its precise source. The new priority is to quantify the data.
3. We bought more gadgets for our research on self-tracking.
4. It's important the we log everything on the progress sheet.
5. Focus on the correct sentences first.
6. That idea is definitely ingenious. People set precise health goals in January.
7. Stand 6 feet apart when you are in a group.
8. Has it occurred to you that the traffic jam is worst every year.
9. Mind your own business.
10. Have you ever been tempted to pull the fire alarm?

ONE MORE ACTIVITY ON THE NEXT PAGE

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Listen to the sentences. Pay attention to the pronunciation of the word in bold letters.

If it is correct, write "OK".

If it is wrong, write the correct for with the stressed sillables in capital letters. Example: TEAcher.

Big data can help you design new products.
Salmon from Veta La Palma is very tasty.
Our reputation seems to be of great importance.
Since we started the course, we have made a lot of progress.
Do you speak other languages?
Success depends on your discipline.
Suits are common outfits for lawyers.
Three or four students are enough for a discussion.

LIVEWORKSHEETS