

Consider these possible types of assessment and drag them to the right column.

Assessment
for learning

Assessment
of learning

Assessment
as learning

It helps the teacher to find the evidence of students' achievement.	It involves students in their own learning process. It promotes self and peer assessment. It helps students to observe their own progress.	It encourages teachers to share the assessment criteria. It is aware of students with special needs. It promotes certain flexibility and class discussions about the assessment process.