Remained    yearned    fulfilled    happened    wanted    gave

Once upon a time there was a king and queen who, although they lived happily in their castle,                      day after day to have a child. One day, the Queen was bathing in the river when a frog that heard her prayers told her.

- My Queen, very soon you will see your wish                      . In less than a year you will give birth to a girl.

After a year the prognosis was fulfilled and the Queen                      birth to a beautiful little princess. She and her husband, the King, were so happy that they                      to celebrate a big party in honor of their first-born. The whole Kingdom came to her, including the fairies, whom the King expressly wanted to invite to bestow noble virtues on his daughter. But it                      that there were thirteen fairies in the kingdom, and the King had only twelve gold plates, so he had to stop inviting one of them. But the sovereign did not give importance to this fact.

At the end of the banquet, each fairy gave a gift to the little princess. The first gave him virtue; the second, beauty; the third, wealth .. But when only the last fairy                      to bestow her virtue, the fairy who had not been invited appeared very angry and said:

- When the princess turns fifteen, she will prick herself with the spindle of a spinning wheel and die.
