

(17) THE 2000's

ACTIVITY 1: Choose three images and write a sentence illustrating an event of the decade.

Modals of deduction (present)

We can use MUST, MAY, MIGHT, COULD and CAN'T to express how sure we are about something happening in the present or the future.

MUST

We use must when we feel sure about something because there is some kind of evidence.

She must study very hard because she gets really good marks.

You have been working all day. You must be very tired.

CAN'T

We use can't when we feel sure something is not true.

She can't study very hard because she gets really bad marks.

You have been sleeping all day. You can't be tired.

MAY, MIGHT, COULD

We use may, might and could when we are not sure about something, but we think it is possible.

She might go to the party tomorrow if you ask her.

ACTIVITY 2: Complete the sentences with a modal verb (must, might/could/may, can't), expressing deduction in the present.

1. The baby is crying, but he _____ be hungry because he has just eaten.
2. He _____ be cold, although it's warm in the bedroom.
3. He _____ feel sick, but it's unlikely. He is a very healthy baby.
4. He _____ be thirsty because he has just drunk some water.
5. He _____ have wet his nappies. we should check.

Modals of deduction (past)

When we use a modal verb to talk about a situation where we are not expressing a fact but we are using deduction the form is

MODAL + have + past participle

He must have been very happy when he was told about his promotion. (we are quite sure about it)

He was supposed to be here an hour ago but he could have been stuck in a traffic jam. (we are not sure about something but we think it was possible)

You can't have seen him this morning. He was with me all the time. (we are sure this did not happen in the past)

ACTIVITY 3: Rewrite the following sentences keeping the same meaning:

1. It's possible that the teacher saw me.

The teacher _____

2. It's possible that I left my English book at home because it is not here.

I _____

3. Maybe she didn't mean what she said about you.

She _____

4. I'm almost sure that your classmate took your jacket by mistake.

He _____

ACTIVITY 4: Look at the photos. Write two sentences for each one, making one deduction in the present and one in the past.
