1. Read the text:

Once there was a small glade in an old forest. Only a little sunlight came through the branches of the tall green trees. That was Bambi's home, a baby deer. He and his mother were sleeping. Suddenly he got up. He heard a lovely song from a bird far away. –Mama, can we go to the meadow, he asked. –No, Bambi, you can't go now, she answered. –Why can't we go there? –It's dangerous to go out of the glade. We can go out late in the evening or at night. –Why? –All the bushes hide us now in summer. And she told him how the trees aren't always green, how the warm and sunny days disappear, how the frost turns leaves yellow, brown, and red, how they fall on the ground and the trees become bare.
