

Gulliver's travels

•Listen and read the text.

November, 1699

While we were on the ship, there was a terrible storm. The wind was strong and we were weak. I don't remember much.

The morning after the storm, I was on a island in the country of Lilliput.

It was very sunny and hot and I was very tired and hungry.

All around me there were small people with bows and arrows in their hands. They were less than fifteen centimetres tall. They were the Lilliputians. I was their prisoner but they were afraid of me because I was very big and tall.
