QUIZ UNIT 9

A- Read the text. Are the sentences True (T) or False (F)?

Emotions on the page

Research shows that people from different cultures read faces and emotions (feelings) differently. And we can see these differences in the emoticons that people use.

An emoticon is a picture of a face that you use online or in an email to show your feelings. You make an emoticon using the symbols on your keyboard.

In western countries, like the US, people show their feelings mostly with their mouth. They smile or laugh when they are happy. And in western emoticons the mouth is the most important part. :-) is a happy face and :-(is a sad face.

In Asian countries, like Japan, the eyes are more important for showing emotion. So Asian emoticons are quite different. ^_^ is a happy face and ;_; is a sad face, someone crying.

1. People from different cultures show their emotions the same way. T F
2. You use emoticons to show your feelings in a conversation. T F
3. You make an emoticon with your computer keyboard. T F
