

Instructions: Drag and Drop the function into the correct organelle.

It is where the genetic material is stored.

Converts the nutrients into energy.

It is the distributor of the substances produced by the cell.

It is where proteins are produced.

It controls the movement of substances inside and outside the cell.

A system of channels where cell substances are moved.

Liquid inside the cell. The organelles are suspended here.

