

LNG Tankers

The captain and crew pilot the ship from the bridge.

The ballast tank with water keeps the ship stable and weighs it down in the water.

These tanks hold liquefied natural gas (LNG).

The engine room is at the back of the boat.

The thick hull helps to keep the LNG cold and protects the ship against damage.