Exercise 1

Two high school seniors are having a conversation about life after graduation.

Fill in the blanks in their conversation with clauses from the box.

whoever hires me	if you might have a point
what you're going to do	what I have to do
the army will help me decide	whatever I'm told
I'm going into the army	what I want as a career
I'll get a job	whatever your boss tells you

Colleen: We graduate next month. Do you know what you're going to do?

Amanda: I don't have a clue. I guess _____ .

Colleen: Doing what?

Amanda: Doing_____ .

Colleen: By whom?

Amanda: By_____ . What about you?

Colleen: I think _____ .

Amanda: The army? Why?

Colleen: Well, I don't know yet _____ . I figure _____ Why don't you join along with me?

Amanda: What? And be told_____every minute of the day?

Colleen: You just said you're willing to do _____ . Anyway, it's not like that. You can learn a lot of new things and get away from home to boot. Think it over.

Amanda: Hmm... I wonder _____ .

Exercise 2

Two friends in their late twenties, Brady and Pablo, are talking. Fill in the blanks in their conversation with whatever, whichever, whoever, or however and correct forms of the indicated verbs. You will use some of these words more than once.

Pablo: What's the matter with you lately? You seem really down in the dumps.

Brady: I don't know. I'm just not very happy. Take girls, for example. Whoever I meet (1. (I / meet)) bores me. I'd like to meet some new and interesting people.

Pablo: What about work? Doesn't that satisfy you?

Brady: Nah, I've been there so long that I can do _____ (2. (I / want)), but there's no challenge anymore. Right now there are five major projects the company is doing. My boss tells me to work on _____ (3. (one / interest me)) the most. The trouble is, none of them interest me.

Pablo: Why don't you try doing some volunteer work? That's what I do—I go down to the community center and work with _____ (4. (need / help)) on that day. You get your mind off yourself when you're volunteering.

Brady: What kind of things do you do?

Pablo: Sometimes I just sit and talk to old people. Sometimes I umpire a baseball game. Sometimes I help a kid with his homework. I do _____ (5. (I / can)).

Brady: How much time do you have to put in, say, every week?

Pablo: You can put in _____ (6. (much / time / you / want)). There are no rules on that.

Brady: OK, so what do I do?

Pablo: Just go down to the community center some evening. Talk to _____ (7. (be)) at the main desk. Say you're there to help. You'll do _____ (8. (need / to be done)).

Brady: OK, I'll give it a try. Helping others might cheer me up. What's the address?
