Hi Jason!

Sorry I haven't written before, but there are so many things I've ^{had to} ~~must~~ do since we moved to California. For one, I have to taking a driving test. My brother is lucky. He must not take one because he got a license when he was a student here. And you really have to drive if you live here—it's very hard to get around without a car! So, I've been studying the Driver Handbook, and I've found some pretty interesting—and sometimes strange—things:

- You can't smoke when a minor (that's someone under the age of eighteen) is in the car.
- You can use a cell phone, but you has got to use one with a hands-free device.
- You must no "dump or abandon animals on a highway." (I can't imagine anyone doing this, can you?) If you do, you will probably must pay a fine of $1,000, or go to jail for six months, or both!

Did you must take a road test when you moved to Italy?

I've got go now. Let me hear from you!

R.

EXERCISE 5 EDITING

Greetings from Bermuda

Here we are in beautiful Bermuda. It's sunny, 80°F, and ~~it will~~^{it's} supposed to get even warmer later today.

I'm so glad we decided to come here for our honeymoon. We was supposed to go to London, but we decided we really needed a relaxing beach vacation instead. The hotel is very nice. We were supposed to get a standard double room, but when they found out we were on our honeymoon, they upgraded us to a suite with an ocean view. Tonight we're eating at Chez Marcel's. It supposes to be one of the best restaurants on the island.

Gotta go now. I suppose to meet Adam in a few minutes. He's supposed to join me at the beach, but decided to play some tennis instead.

Thanks for offering to pick us up at the airport. We're supposed to arriving at 5:30 p.m., but check with the airport before to see if there are any delays. See you soon!

Love,

Erica
