

Yet or just?

verb

done

Written

started revised (means to review, or to study for)

finished

Handed in (to give to)

Molly: Have you [] your Maths homework []?

Sam: No, not []. It's really hard. Have you done yours?

Molly: Yes, I've [] [] it.

Sam: How about English?

Have you [] that composition []?

Molly: Yes, I've [] [] it in. Have you done yours?

Sam: No, not yet.

And I haven't [] my Art project []

Molly: What about our Science homework?

Have you [] that?

Sam: No, not yet. And I haven't [] for the test.

Molly: Test? What test?

Sam: Don't worry! I'm only joking ... Or am I ...?