

1. Read and answerMistaken Identity

I just recently read in the news something that seemed to come right out of a bad movie plot. A local shop owner, Mr Jones, was in the wrong place at the wrong time. As he opened the door to answer the doorbell, he unintentionally let in two gangsters who started repeatedly stabbing him in the chest and abdomen.

It turned out that the gang members were after a man that looked a lot like Mr Jones, who lived in the same apartment building.

Mr. Jones was lucky enough to shout out his name and place of work between knife stabs, alerting his attackers of their mistake.

After realizing they had the wrong man, the gangsters became a little softer. They immediately put away their knives and apologized saying that they were sorry for their mistake and that they hoped he would be OK but quickly added that if he called the police they would be back to kill him.

However, the two men were quickly arrested and hopefully will be in jail long enough for Mr. Jones to move and change his name.
