The night train

Mum and Dad are in the living room. They're watching television.
My sister's in the bathroom. She's singing happy songs.
But I'm here, in my bedroom. I'm waiting for the night train.
I've got my night train ticket! Please don't tell them! They don't know!

My family are all sleeping now.
I'm getting my long red jacket.
I'm opening my window and
I'm jumping to the tree.

I'm running in the night now,
very quickly, very quickly!
I can see the night train.
Wait for me!

Now I'm riding on the night train.
We're going to the mountains.
My friends and I can play there in the snow.

We're making funny snowmen.
We're throwing big white snowballs.
We're running and we're jumping and...
we don't want to go!

It's morning in our house now. My mum is making breakfast.
Dad's sitting at the table and my sister's phoning friends.
But I'm holding my new ticket. It's my ticket to the mountains!
Look! Look! But please don't tell them! They don't know!
