A crossword puzzle grid is shown, featuring several empty squares for letters. The grid is composed of white squares with black borders. To the left of the grid are three illustrations: a campfire at the top, a guitar in the middle, and a coiled blue rope at the bottom. The grid has a central vertical column of 7 squares. A horizontal row of 6 squares intersects this column at the second square from the top. Another horizontal row of 6 squares intersects the column at the fifth square from the top. A third horizontal row of 6 squares intersects the column at the sixth square from the top. There are also two single squares above the first intersection and one below it. On the right side, there is a vertical column of 8 squares starting from the fourth square of the main vertical column.
