IV. Read the text and decide if the statements are true or false.

The total area of Singapore, including the main island and all the islets, is 648 sq km. From north to south. Singapore Island, the main island, extends 22 km, and its greatest east-west extent is 50 km. The larger islets, which all have small fishing villages, include Tekong, Ubin, and Sentosa. Singapore island is low-lying with prominent relief features. A central area of hills rises to a maximum elevation of 176 m at Bukit Timah. Numerous short streams, including the Singapore River, drain the island. Because Singapore lies just north of the equator, the wet tropical climate has no clearly defined seasons. The average annual temperature is 27° C and the average annual rainfall is 2,400 mm. Although rainfall is abundant throughout the year, November through January are the wettest months.

1. The main island of Singapore is 648 sq km large. _____
