

Track 39

Tom: Hey, Sandra, how's it going? What do you think of the campus?

Sandra: I think it's all fantastic. Have you been to the [redacted] in the library, yet?

Tom: No, I haven't. Where is it?

Sandra: It's [redacted]. You know, you can have a break without actually leaving the library. It's really great to [redacted] there.

Tom: Yeah. That's an excellent idea. And it means you've got somewhere to chat without upsetting people who want to [redacted]. I can't concentrate when other people are talking. I usually go upstairs to work in the silent zone, on the [redacted]

Sandra: Oh, do you? Is it difficult to study at home, then? Where do you live?

Tom: I'm living in a [redacted] on campus.

Sandra: Oh, right. It must be tough trying to study in your room.

Tom:

Yeah ... It's pretty noisy, especially at the [redacted]. Are you living on campus, too?

Sandra:

Yes. I'm on campus, but there are only [redacted] people our house. So it tends to be a bit [redacted]. It's at the end of the footpath, not far from the [redacted]

Tom:

Oh, right. I know where you mean. I play football on the pitch next to the [redacted]. I spend quite a lot of time around there.

Sandra:

Well, next time you're in that part, let me know. You can come round for [redacted]
