Otters

Otters spend most of their time in the water. They have long flat tails and webbed feet that help them swim.

It is fun to watch otters because they are very playful. In the summer, they slide down banks of mud and splash into the water. In the winter, they love to slide in the snow.

Otters mostly eat fish. They can also eat frogs, small snakes, birds and insects.

An otter can hold its food in its paws and float on its back while it eats. It looks like the otter is using its belly as a table!
