Which is it, "that" or "which"?! What about commas?! – by S. Meyer for her sweet students

"That vs. which?" Arggh! One of them also needs a comma – maybe even two! – but which one is it?! ... Now you'll know!

EXAMINE the two examples, then click on the correct answers in the pull-down menus.

Ex. The soccer game that starts this afternoon is going to be fantastic!
IMPORTANT INFO: soccer game, starting time, fantastic
INDIVIDUATES PRESUMES: There are lots of soccer games, but the only one starting this afternoon is the one in question.

Ex. The soccer game, which starts this afternoon, is going to be fantastic!
IMPORTANT INFO: soccer game, fantastic
DESCRIBES PRESUMES: There's only one soccer game, and it happens to start this afternoon.

1) La relazione che devi presentare è nel portatile rosso. _____

IMPORTANT INFO: _____

_____ PRESUMES: _____

2) La relazione, che devi presentare, è nel portatile rosso. _____

IMPORTANT INFO: _____

_____ PRESUMES: _____

LIVEWORKSHEETS

3) Il leone di John, che è nel garage, urla come un gatto morente! _____

IMPORTANT INFO: _____

_____ PRESUMES: _____

4) Il leone di John che è nel garage urla come un gatto morente! _____

IMPORTANT INFO: _____

_____ PRESUMES: _____

5) WRITE your own! (ungraded) (watch out for commas!)

INDIVIDUATES: _____

DESCRIBES: _____

(N.B., all images used come from the Microsoft Clipart available in the Word program used to make this file.)

LIVEWORKSHEETS