

THE THREE R'S OF RECYCLING

Name:

Organizing a paragraph

Put the sentences into the correct order to form the paragraph:

WRITING

The order in which the 3 R's appear is also important to remember. Reducing first, reusing second and then recycling – the order should help to set one's waste reduction priorities.

Reducing what we consume, and use would have the most positive benefit or outcome.

The 3 R's are simple, well established, recognizable and are easily recalled- a great ingredient to positive communication and a good cornerstone to marketing efforts.

If you cannot Reduce or Reuse, then you need to Recycle it into the correct recycling container at home or at work where the item can be remade and manufactured into something new.

Secondly, to Reuse or Repurpose the resource.
