

A Lesson from Grandpa

I spent last summer at my grandparents' house. They live in the [redacted] and their house is very simple. They don't have a TV. They don't even have [redacted]. Staying at their house was one of the most difficult things I have [redacted], but I'm glad I did it.

One day, Grandpa took me to his special [redacted]. We hiked for a long time, and then we sat under a giant [redacted]. I was bored and I wanted to have an adventure in the forest, but Grandpa made me stay. He told me to close my eyes and take deep [redacted]. Then, he asked me if I noticed anything new. What did I smell, feel, and [redacted]? I didn't notice anything at first, but after a few minutes it was [redacted]! There was a wonderful smell from the trees. The ground was hard. I could hear [redacted]. I even heard the wind blowing through the trees. Finally, I opened my eyes. Everything was so colorful! It was the most beautiful place I have [redacted].
