Introduction

"They were a wicked pair," Mrs Grose said, "but what can they do now? They're dead."

"They're still here ... They can still take Miles and Flora from us!"

A young woman comes to a big country house to teach two young children. It is her first job as a governess and she is alone with the housekeeper, Mrs Grose. Strange things begin to happen. She sees a man on the roof of the house, and a woman by the lake, dressed in black. Mrs Grose can't see them, so the governess describes them to her. They sound like two people who died almost a year ago, Peter Quint and Miss Jessel. These people in black can only be their ghosts. Mrs Grose says that Peter Quint and Miss Jessel were bad people. She says they spent too much time with little Miles and Flora. The two women are very frightened. Have the ghosts come to take the children away? Everyone knows ghosts can't hurt innocent children. But are these beautiful children really innocent?
