Story 3

Rach knew she had earned some good and bad grades. She put the progress report in her binder. She would give it to her parents when she got home. When she arrived home, she realized that the progress report was not in her binder when she got o the bus. She must have lost it! Instead of crying, she made a plan. Rach decided to talk to her teacher about it the next day. Her teacher thanked her for being responsible. She printed Rach a new progress report to take home.
