

Useful Comparatives & Superlatives (IELTS)

Adjective	Comparative	Superlative
High
Low
Moderate Popular
less more significant short long great Big
Large Substantial

Besides the use of adjectives, comparatives and superlatives, the below vocabulary may be used.

each other unknowingly respectively limited equal contrast

The below is no sign of how the static graph should be structurally written. These sentences are simply mixed with the aim of practising the above grammar point.

_____ percentage of people immigrated to the UK with a guaranteed job offer.

Besides having no reason to state, _____ amount of people immigrated to the UK under 'other' reasons. This figure is closely followed by the reason of _____.

Similar to the reason of immigration, _____ proportion of people emigrated due to _____. These figures are nearly as _____ as _____ with a difference of only 1%. However, _____ amount of people emigrated to undertake _____. This shows a _____ contrasting difference to those that immigrated to study in the UK at 4% and 26% _____. Whereas, _____ was _____ reason for emigration in the UK, it was the second _____ reason for immigration.