Small Snake couldn't move like the other snakes. "I'm so _____," he cried.

Caterpillar offered to lend Small Snake a few legs. The young reptile stumbled and _____ on them.

Raven stuck out her chest and _____, "I am the one who can make this poor snake _____ enough to slither here and there."

Mr. Caterpillar offered to help, but Raven waved him away and said, "Do not _____ with what I am doing."

She made a straight line of poles in the ground. "Now, go in and out from each pole to the next."

Small Snake found that he was curving and slithering. "I know how to do it now!" he cried.

Raven said, "Caterpillar, you will watch out for Small Snake and be his _____ until he grows up."
