I live in a small village near Birmingham. There are lots of good things about living in a village. I live near my friends, and I can ride my bike to their houses. We hang out together by the river or we ride our bikes to the village shop.

However, Birmingham is more exciting than my village. Sometimes, we get the bus to the city. It's much bigger than my village. Sometimes we hang out in the park or go to a cafe. There are shops, cafes and cinemas too, so there's a lot to do. It's more interesting than my village, but it's noisier and dirtier, too.

I think Birmingham is a nice city but I think my village is more beautiful. There aren't any cinemas or cafes in my village but it's cleaner and quieter than Birmingham.
