DIFFERENT WAYS TO START THE DAY AROUND THE WORLD

What food does your family eat in the morning? What is your favorite breakfast food? Is your meal at breakfast very different from your meal at lunch or dinner? Do you eat the same things as your friends?

Different families around the world have very different diets. Do you know what people have for breakfast in other parts of the world?

In Malawi, Emily, seven years old, starts the day at six in the morning. She lives with her grandmother and seven other family members. Her breakfast is porridge made from flour. She also has vegetables and drinks tea.

Oyku is nine years old. She's from Turkey. She has brown bread with olives, jam, tomatoes, eggs, and lots of different types of cheese.

Nathanaël is six and he lives in France. From Monday to Friday, Nathanaël has fruit, cereal, and bread with his grandmother's jam for breakfast. On the weekends he eats croissants. His favorite food, though, is crêpes with hot chocolate. In France, children drink hot chocolate from a bowl.

Viv, from the Netherlands, is five years old. She has bread with sweet sprinkles on top. This is a very popular breakfast in the Netherlands. The Dutch eat 750,000 slices of bread with chocolate sprinkles every day!
