

Commonly Confused Homophones

whose & who's

Whose is used in questions where you're asking about who owns something.

The contraction who's means who is or who has.

Choose who's or whose to complete each sentence.

1. I can tell who's, whose prepared for school and who's, whose not.
2. Who's, Whose book is this?
3. Who's, Whose been eating up my fruits?
4. Who's, Whose side are you on?
5. Are you the one who's, whose eaten all the cake?
6. Who's, Whose going to eat the rest of the potatoes?
7. Tell me who's, whose coming to the meeting.
8. Return this charger to who's, whose it is.
9. Who's, Whose going to the party?
10. I don't know who's, whose coming with us.