The Jokes | Brandi Carlile

You're feeling nervous, aren't you, boy?
With your quiet voice and impeccable style
Don't ever let them steal your joy
And your gentle ways, to keep 'em from running wild

They can kick dirt in your face
Dress you down, and tell you that your place
Is in the middle, when they hate the way you shine
I see you tugging on your shirt
Trying to hide inside of it and hide how much it hurts

Let 'em laugh while they can
Let 'em spin, let 'em scatter in the wind
I have been to the movies, I've seen how it ends
And the joke's on them

16. What is the message of the lyric above?

Something that I always bring when I go out is a scarf. A scarf, is a piece of fabric worn around the neck for warmth, sun protection, cleanliness, fashion, or religious reasons. They can be made in a variety of different materials such as wool, linen or cotton. It is a common type of neckwear.

I think scarf is very important. Actually I have a favourite scarf. It also comes in a grey color which is gorgeous. The scarf is incredibly lightweight, making it easy for me to keep in my bag at all times. I think this color matches with my jeans. I like wearing jeans. I wear jeans most of the time. I usually tie it around my neck. This is usually accompanied by a heavy jacket or coat. I think it improves my look a lot. Of course it also arouses my confidence.

This 100% silk scarf is a wearable piece of art with non-repeating design. It is elegant, luxuriously soft to the touch, light and comfortable. It is thin and sleek. It feels soft in my hand. I love its texture. In drier, dustier warm climates, or in environments where there are many airborne contaminants, I use this scarf to cover my nose and mouth.

18. The writer's main purpose to write the above text is

Once upon a time in a cold winter night in which the snow fell without stopping, there stood the little girl in front of the flower shop. But the girl stood alone freezing with a box of matches. This small poor girl was trying to sell matches because she was ordered to do so by a strict father. He didn't allow her to come home until all the matches were sold otherwise she would get a beating. It was late at night so everybody walked along fast in order to get home soon. They wanted to have gathered with their family in their warm house. She yelled to sell matches, but everybody just walked hurriedly. Nobody gave attention to the poor little girl.

The girls were so sad. Her matches hadn't been sold. When the night became darker, the street had already been empty. The girl got very cold almost freezing. Finally she tried to warm up herself with the matches which she held in her hand. She lit one of them. Suddenly she saw something what she dream of. It was a lot delicious food and many kinds of candies and cake. She enjoyed watching all that food. But suddenly the match was out. All the food and drink that she dreamed of vanished. She lit another matches. Again, she saw everything she dreamed off in front of her. They were so real that she was amazed. The girl was very happy. She lit all the matches that she had.

Finally it left one match. She lit it. She saw her beloved grandmother who had already passed away in front of her. The grandmother smiled and opened her hand lovingly. She cried and said. 'Grandma, take me with you. I am so cold here'. The girl felt that her grandma hugged her. The next morning people found the little girl died with her loving smile in her face.

My school had organized a two day trip to Malang during the school holiday. Many of my friends filled the consent to go for the trip. I wanted to go to but feared that my parents would not agree. I still remember how I hesitantly handed over the consent form for the trip to my father and began telling him about the details of the trip. It took me around 2 days to convince my parents to allow me to go for the trip. I was finally glad and super excited about the trip. I promised them that I would not talk to strangers, always moved with the group and be careful with everything during the trip.

We travelled from Jakarta by train and then took a bus to reach Malang. We reached our hotel in the morning. The first day we went to the mall road. The weather was pleasant and the place was amazing. We roamed around on the mall road and had planned to have lunch in a restaurant on our way back to the hotel but could not resist the smell of Bakwan Malang. They were super delicious and we ate so many of them that there was no room for lunch. In the afternoon we went back to the hotel to take a rest.

At midnight, the jeep took us to Bromo Mountain, our main destination. The road to the temple was quite steep and we encountered a lot of foreign tourists wearing thick jacket in their jeeps. It was a bit scary but exciting at the same time at the top of the mountain, there had already been a lot of tourists. We found seats among the crowded people. As the sun rose, I saw spectacular view of the peak of some mountains which slowly appeared. Below the peak was white cloud. So the mountain looked like floating on the water. It was so stunning at I saw all the tourists stood still and amazed. All of us were speechless. It was so beautiful. Everybody took the pictures using their camera. We enjoyed the view until about 8 in the morning and then we went back to our hotel to visit some beautiful places in Malang.

It was so wonderful holiday that I can't forget. I still can explain the beauty of Mount Bromo now although I visited that place a year ago.

Hummingbird is the tiniest of nearly 10 000 known bird species. There are 343 different hummingbird species that can be found in the North and South America. Most hummingbirds reach 3.3 inches in length and weigh between 0.07 and 0.7 ounces. Destruction and loss of habitat affect the number of hummingbirds in the wild. Global warming (climate changes) affects their migratory patterns and changes the normal behaviour of hummingbirds.

Hummingbirds have lower number of feathers compared to other birds (less than 1000), but they are known as "the flying jewels" because they are able to change the colour of their feathers when they fly. This unique characteristic is the result of the iridescence colouring of the feathers and the influence of light, moisture and other factors. Hummingbirds are named after the humming sound which is produced by their wings during flight.

Hummingbirds are very intelligent animals. They have larger brain size (compared to the rest of the body) than other birds. Their brain weighs 4.2% of the hummingbird total body weight. Hummingbirds can remember which flower they have already visited and they know how much time each flower requires for nectar refilling. Hummingbirds can see and hear better than humans. They can even detect ultraviolet light. They do not have the sense of smell. Hummingbirds use eyesight to locate the flowers. They prefer red flowers with a tubular shape. Hummingbirds have long beak which help them reach the bottom of the flower and forked (W shaped) tongue which is used for licking of the nectar inside it.

Hummingbirds are well known for their ability to move their wings fast. They can move their wings 70 times in a single second. Unlike other birds, they move their wings making a full circle. This type of flying requires a lot of energy and that is the reason why hummingbirds eat a lot of food each day. Hummingbirds use carbohydrates (sugars) as the main source of energy for flight. Nectar from flowers is the best source of sugar and hummingbirds drink it 5 to 8 times each hour. It spends 30 to 60 seconds in feeding. Hummingbird usually visits 1000 flowers per day. Hummingbirds also eat insects, which provide them with enough proteins.
