

Across	Down
1. It has a start and an end, these are both referred to as terminators	2. There is a hub or switch that the server and all nodes can connect to.
3. There is a main cable that stretches from the server, connects to every node and then connects back to the server. Data only transfers in one direction.	4. This is the name given to devices that connect to the network.
5. Another name for nodes on a network	6. The name for a set of computers sharing resources located on or provided by nodes
7. What is the start and an end of a bus network referred to as?	7. The layout of all devices that are connected on a network

LIVEWORKSHEETS