Put the verbs into the present perfect.

One of my friends at school is Dilap. His parents are from India – they came to Britain twenty-five years ago. They live in the same street as me – they <sup>1</sup> 've always lived (live) in the same house. Dilap and I went to the same junior school and we <sup>2</sup> 've (be) friends since then.

Dilap's really smart. He plays chess and he's very good – he <sup>3</sup> 's (win) lots of school tournaments. He <sup>4</sup> 's (beat) the chess teacher lots of times, too! He's also really good at Maths and at Information Technology. Dilap says that people from India <sup>5</sup> 've always been (be) good with computers and things like that. He <sup>6</sup> 's (try) to teach me things about IT, but he <sup>7</sup> 's never been (be) very successful!

Dilap <sup>8</sup> 's (visit) India about six times, I think – his family goes back every year to see their relatives. He <sup>9</sup> 's always enjoyed (enjoy) the visits to India, he says. I'd love to go with him one day – but so far, he <sup>10</sup> 's (not invite) me!
