

Breakfast

around the world!

What are you going to make for breakfast tomorrow? What do people eat in other parts of the world?

Japan: A traditional Japanese breakfast includes _____ of soup and some steamed rice. People serve these with some fish and vegetables, together with _____ of green tea. Good manners are very important at the table; the rice should always be on a person's left-hand side and the soup on the right.

The United Kingdom: The typical English breakfast is a 'fry-up' that includes a lot of fried food, like eggs, mushrooms, bacon, sausages and tomatoes with baked beans! They serve it with _____ of toast and some butter and a cup of tea to finish. Not many people eat a 'fry-up' every morning. When they wake up tomorrow, most Brits are probably going to eat _____ of cereal.

Poland: Polish people like a breakfast spread with a lot of choice. Fresh bread and creamy butter are essential. They prepare scrambled eggs, cold meats, _____ tomatoes and many different types of cheese for the breakfast table. They even have a soup made from milk. These days people can also have some yoghurt or cereal. Strong coffee or _____ of tea is always available.

Check these words

traditional, includes, steamed, good manners, important, fried, toast, breakfast spread, scrambled eggs, sliced, available

Read the text and write the countries:
Japan, the UK or Poland.

- 1 They eat rice for breakfast in
- 2 Most people eat a bowl of cereal with milk in
- 3 They serve breakfast with toast and butter in
- 4 Table manners are important at breakfast in
- 5 Fresh bread and butter are important for breakfast in

Find and correct mistakes (find in the text):

Example:

I would like a toast with a butter.

I would like a toast with butter/some butter.

1. I am having a bowl of tea.

2. Give me, please, a cup of soup.

3. I am very hungry! I have eaten just a little slices of toast for breakfast.

4. I can't stand hard coffee. It's too bitter for me. I prefer with milk.

5. Behave! Good manners are important on the table!

