Kinkajous are mammals that live in the tropical rainforests of Central and South America. They are small in size and have tiny webbed fingers. Their tails are not so tiny, however. In fact, their tails are longer than the combined length of their heads and bodies. The tail is long for one important reason: balance! Kinkajous look for food in trees, which means they need to have excellent balance in order to stay safe while performing this daily activity. They can even hang from branches by the tips of their tails. When they want to return back to the branches, all the kinkajous have to do is climb back up their tails!

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Kinkajous are commonly referred to as honey bears because they love to steal honey from beehives. They also love to drink sweet nectar. This earned them the scientific name of Potos flavus, which translates to "golden drinker." Kinkajous are also nicknamed la llorona. This means 'the crying woman' in Spanish. Can you guess why kinkajous have this nickname? Their loud screeches and barks echo throughout the forest, which makes them sound like a woman crying.

Kinkajous are normally mild-mannered and sweet. That's why some people like to have them as pets. Their constant climbing and screeching can sometimes make them difficult to own, however. Kinkajous are also nocturnal, so sometimes they can be disruptive when you're trying to sleep!

Would you want to own a pet kinkajou?
