Hi, my name's Robert. I live in Greenland. Greenland is an island in the north east of Canada. People think it's always winter in Greenland. It's true that we have winter for about nine months, when the temperature is sometimes -40°C ! But we have warm summers, too. In July, the sun shines for about hours a day.

Lots of things have changed for people. Long time ago, we lived in houses made of ice. But today, our houses are made of wood. We don't catch animals for food anymore. We buy most of our food in supermarkets, just like in most other countries! Even our clothes are different. We don't wear animal fur anymore. My favorite clothes are jeans and T-shirts.

In the past, we travelled by sledges. We used dogs to pull the sledges. But now we have motorbikes with skis on them, to help us drive in snow.

The weather around the world is getting warmer all the time. What will happen to Greenland in the future? Nobody knows, but I think it will be very different in 50 years' time.

Questions:

1. How many months of a year is the winter in Greenland?
2. Where did the people in Greenland used to live in?
3. Do the people in Greenland wear animal fur now?
4. What does Robert like wearing?
5. How does the people in Greenland travel now?

Part 2: Read the story and choose the best answer. (2.5 pts)
