Read the text and decide if each statement (1-10) is True (A) or False (B).

Situated at a short distance from the port of Piraeus, Hydra is one of the islands of the Argosaronic Gulf. People say that in the past Hydra was a place with a lot of forests. Although the name Hydra means a place with plenty of water, today the island is dry and rocky. As farming was impossible, the island could not offer much to make a living. As a result, the people who first settled on the island started building ships and they managed to build up a large number of ships, which developed into a merchant marine power. By the 19th century Hydra was rich, a great sea power and had become independent. The Hydriot ships were the only ships that could transport goods in the Mediterranean Sea.

The Hydriots were not the first to start the Greek War of Independence against the Turks in 1821. When they joined, however, their ships made up two-thirds of the whole Greek fleet. More than that, they offered their men to the Revolution. Admiral Andreas Miaoulis was the first commander of the Greek fleet. If you ever go to Hydra, you must visit the Museum of Hydra. There you can see Miaoulis' cross and more importantly, his heart, the heart of Greece, in the Hall of Paintings.
