

HAVE GOT or HAVE??

HAVE GOT e HAVE: significado semelhante; ambos podem ser usados para falar de posse (possession), relacionamentos (relationships), doenças (illnesses) e características (characteristics) das pessoas ou coisas. Mas...

... HAVE é usado no registro mais formal e HAVE GOT no registro mais informal.
Gramaticalmente:

👉 HAVE: precisamos de usar o verbo auxiliar (auxiliary verb) DO em frases negativas (negative sentences) ou em perguntas (questions);

👉 HAVE GOT: não usamos o verbo DO.

☞ They haven't got a car. (Informal)

=

They don't have a car. (Formal)

☞ How many brothers have you got? (Informal)

=

How many brothers do you have? (Formal)

II- Expressões (collocations) com apenas o verbo HAVE:

- have a baby...
- have + an illness (a headache...)/ have a surgery...
- have an appointment / interview
- have a conversation / talk ...
- have an argument / a fight
- have a party/ have a holiday
- have a good time/ have a blast...

- have + meal (lunch...)/ a drink (coffee...)
- have a shower...
- have + an activity (a swim/ jog...)
- have a haircut...
- have a break/ have a nap...
- have a dream

Let's practise!

I. Choose the most suitable option.

- a) I haven't / have got a brother.
- b) She has got / has blonde hair.
- c) They don't have / have got a cold.
- d) Does she have / Has she got freckles? Yes, she has / does .
- e) My brother has / has got a swim every morning.
- f) We usually have got / have dinner at 7 o'clock.
- g) I have / have got a shower every evening.
- h) We always have / have got lots of fun in the park.
- i) The kids never have got / have milk at breakfast.
- j) What have you / do you have for tea?
- k) I am having / have got a job interview this week.
- l) I think that you should have / have got a shave.
- m) You look so tired! Why haven't you got / don't you have a rest?

Teacher Rosa Maia

