Cloze: Prouct Placement

Fill each gap with ONE word

If you saw the latest James Bond film, you must (1) seen his n	ew sports car in a number of key scenes. This is not, (2), just because the car is important to	the plot. It is a result of an agreement(3) the car's manufacturers and the film studio, ain	ned at promoting the luxury model (4) screen. And it works! (5) a result of the film	n, sales of the car in the USA have (6) up significantly.
This is an example of (7) is called "product placement". In	(8) words the products and logos that you see in films are there because of advertising deals. Whe
(9) the film Minority Report , he got back around 25 per cent of his bu
(10) thought to have received £3million simply for putting Tom	AND TRACKS. THE COLOR OF THE CO particular car. For some products, (11) as mobile phones ar	AL 25 101035 DAY compete with (12) other to take part in the film, pushing the price
But if you are there just to enjoy the film, you (13) rather no way of the story. Fortunately, advertisers do realize that adverts more harm than good, so there is probably a limit to how (15) w thore harm than good, so there is probably a limit to now (13) w	e wiii see.
Word-building: "Leaving a job"
Add prefixes or suffixes to the word on the right to complete the text.
I recently left my job in an(1) agency after I had a	ADVERT
(2) with my boss. She accepted my resignation, but warned	AGREE
me that because of the (3) situation, I might have to	ECONOMY get used to the idea of being (4) for a while. I thought	EMPLOY that she was trying to make a point, but after fifty(5)	APPLY to other companies, I realized she was right. Although I am a (6)	QUALIFY designer, I didn't receive any offers of a job. After that, I tried working from home, but it was not very(7). Later on I became an	PROFIT
(8) in a fast-food restaurant, though my earnings were	EMPLOY
(9) low.	EXTREME
Now, I wish I had accepted early (10) from my old job.	RETIRE
That is what I disagreed with my boss about!	