There are plenty of must-see places in Florence, Italy. Many tourist spots feature beautiful ___7___, with the Ponte Vecchio being one of the most notable places to visit. Situated above the River Arno, the Ponte Vecchio is covered by a roof and is ___8___ tourist shops. This bridge was first built in 1345, but the roof that now covers it was ___9___ Florence's ruling Medici family in 1565. Duke Cosimo I de' Medici wanted a personal walkway that would connect the town hall with his family's Pitti Palace.

The Ponte Vecchio isn't just a treasure of old Florence, but a great place to shop. You'll still find many of the original shops being run by the ___10___ of the first owners. The products you'll find there are generally expensive, but you can try to ___11___ with the merchants to cut down the price. One thing you won't see anymore, though, are "love locks." Couples would ___12___ their names on locks and secure them on the bridge. They did this as a demonstration of their unbreakable ___13___. Sadly, there is now a fine for doing this. However, you can still enjoy the Ponte Vecchio's romantic appeal as you watch the sunset from there. Just be sure to hold on to your bags—the Ponte Vecchio is a popular place for ___14___ too!
