

WRITING Unit 2

- _____ v. - If you achieve something, you successfully do it or cause it to happen.
- _____ n. - a piece of work for a course of study, e.g. an essay, which has to be assessed by a tutor
- _____ (pi. axes) n. - An axis of a graph is one of the two lines on which the scales of measurement are marked.
- _____ n. - a way of showing mathematical information using bars to show quantities
- _____ n. - a set of things with a particular characteristic in common
- _____ n. - a group of pupils or students taught together, or a lesson that they have together
- _____ n. - a place where students study after they have left school
- _____ v. - If you continue to do something, you keep doing it.
- _____ n. - a series of lessons or lectures
- _____ v. - If you decide to do something, you choose to do it.
- _____ n. - The difference between two numbers is the amount by which one is less than another.
- _____ n. - an exam students must pass in order to go to a particular school, college or university
- _____ n. - a short piece of writing on a particular subject, for example one done as an exercise by a student
- _____ n. - an official test set to find out your knowledge or skill in a subject
- _____ v. - If you fail an exam, you do not get a satisfactory level or pass.
- _____ adv. - You use 'however' when you are adding a comment which contrasts with what has just been said.
- _____ pi. n. - The humanities are subjects such as literature, philosophy, and history which are concerned with people rather than with science.
- _____ n. - the system of words that the people of a country use to communicate with each other
- _____ n. - The law is the system of rules developed by the government of a country, which regulate what people may and may not do and deals with people who break these rules.
- _____ n. - a formal talk intended to teach people about a particular subject
- _____ n. - Literature consists of novels, plays, and poetry.
- _____ adj. - Local means in, near, or belonging to the area in which you live.
- _____ n. - Mathematics is the study of numbers, quantities, and shapes.

_____ v. - If you pass an exam, you achieve a satisfactory level in it.

_____ n. - A pass grade is the grade you must achieve to pass an exam.

_____ n. - the number of times something happens or the number of examples of it

_____ n. - a fraction expressed as a number of hundredths

_____ n. - To give a presentation is to give a talk or demonstration to an audience of something you have been studying or working on.

_____ n. - something you get when you finish a course of study

_____ n. - an amount you can measure or count

_____ v. - to be included in a group of numbers or ages

_____ n. - Science is the study of the nature and behaviour of natural things and the knowledge obtained about them.

_____ n. - subjects which study the way people live in society, e.g. sociology

_____ v. - If you study a particular subject, you spend time learning about it.

_____ n. - an area of study

_____ n. - a person who teaches other people, especially children

_____ n. - a place where students study for degrees

_____ n. - People who have work or who are in work have a job which they are paid to do.

_____ n. - a period of time a student spends working temporarily for an employer in order to get experience.

_____ v. - When you write something, you use a pen or pencil to form letters, words, or numbers on a surface.

v. - If you write something such as a poem, a book, or a piece of music, you create it.