

Man: Can I help you?

Woman: I'd like some information about the mountain park. I've got seven days' holiday next month.

Man: Yes, certainly.

Woman: First, I'd like to book somewhere to stay.

Man: I'm afraid there's nothing in the park, just a small café, that's all. The nearest guest-house is in a village a few kilometres away.

Woman: Has the village got somewhere to swim or a cinema?

Man: It's very quiet. There's just a small supermarket that sells food.

Woman: I don't mind that. Can I take my car to the park?

Man: Yes. But you must leave it at the entrance with the other cars and buses. Visitors must walk through the park.

Woman: And how much does it cost to go in?

Man: From Mondays to Fridays everyone pays twelve dollars, but at weekends it's thirteen dollars for children and sixteen dollars for adults.

Woman: Right. Will I see any animals in the park next month?

Man: I don't think so. But it's the best time to go! There won't be any snow and the flowers will be beautiful.
