ANIMAL RESCUE

My name's Elim. That means knowledge in Swahili. That's my language! I live in Kakamega forest in Kenya. There are many beautiful wild animals here. My dad is a park ranger. He looks after the animals and protects them from poachers. Poachers are a big problem. They catch animals to sell to zoos.
I love inventing things. When I'm older I want to be an engineer. This is my new invention. I use an old mobile phone, a solar panel and a motion sensor to film the animals in the forest. I can watch the leopards when they come to drink.
