irLanguage.com

- ▶ A Listen to what people are listening to on their way to work. Which stories from Exercise 1 are they related to?

Hey, I just downloaded this incredible app. I used it this morning and I think you're going to love it. While I was working out, it calculated exactly how many calories I burned. The bad thing is, it tells me I still need to run about 4 miles to burn off last night's dinner.

As scientists were doing some research on the effects of sleep deprivation, they discovered that women need about 20 more minutes of sleep a night than men do. They think the reason is that women tend to do several tasks at once, which makes their brains work harder.

Hi, Jeff. We're canceling our meeting in the downtown office this morning. We just learned that the police have closed all the streets in the area. It seems that a man was looking for his lost cat when he found a suspicious package inside a trash can. In the end, it was just an old box of chocolates.

- B Which is a message from a co-worker? a message from a friend? a podcast?

3 GRAMMAR FOCUS

▶ Past continuous vs. simple past

Use the past continuous for an ongoing action in the past.

Use the simple past for an event that interrupts that action.

Past continuous

While I was working out,
As scientists were doing research,
A man was looking for his cat

Simple past

it calculated how many calories I burned.
they discovered that women need more sleep than men.
when he found a suspicious package inside a trash can.

6 WRITING A personal account

- A Think of a story that happened to you or to someone you know. Choose one of the titles below, or create your own.

A Scary Experience

I'll Never Forget That Day

I Was Really Lucky

I Can't Believe It Happened

- B Write your story. First, answer these questions.

Who was involved?

Where did it happen?

When did it happen?

What happened?

I Was Really Lucky

Last year, I took a trip to see my grandparents. I was waiting in the airport for my flight when a storm hit, and all the flights were cancelled. Luckily, I...

- C GROUP WORK Take turns telling your stories. Other students ask questions.
Who has the best story?

7 CONVERSATION That's terrible!

A Listen and practice.

CAROL Guess what? Someone stole my new bike yesterday!

MILO Oh, no! What happened?

CAROL Well, I was having lunch with a friend, and I had parked it on the street, just like I always do. When I came back, someone had stolen it. I guess I'd forgotten to lock it up.

MILO That's terrible! Did you report the theft to the police?

CAROL Yes, I did. And I also listed it on that site for stolen and lost bikes. But I doubt I'll ever get it back.

B Listen to the rest of the conversation. What did Milo have stolen once? Where was he?

8 GRAMMAR FOCUS

Past perfect

Use the past perfect for an event that occurred before another event in the past.

Past event

I was having lunch with a friend,
When I came back,
They were able to steal it

Past perfect event

and I had parked my bike on the street.
someone had stolen it.
because I had forgotten to lock it up.

Believing More Than We Should

Is everything you read on the Internet true? If your answer is "no," you are absolutely right. Many stories and even photos are not to be trusted. And don't believe that because a good friend or a well-known news source has posted something that it is necessarily trustworthy.

There are many reasons for the spread of inaccurate content on the Internet. One reason is that satirical websites can create very believable stories, which they invent in order to make a point or to make people laugh. Other reasons might be an attempt to gain more readers, a desire to damage someone's reputation, or simple curiosity about how far a fake story can spread.

One story that spread throughout the media before anyone had checked the facts involved teenagers, selfies, and head lice. The article claimed that when teenagers were posing together for selfies, their heads often touched and the tiny insects were jumping from head to head. The article went on to say that this was causing a massive outbreak of lice. Some major websites and news outlets picked up the story, not even bothering to consult the experts. It turned out that some entrepreneurs who were marketing a new treatment for head lice had made up the story and posted it. Their motivation was to get attention and more business.

The spread of this story is understandable. It involved one epidemic (selfies) causing another (lice), and the "ick" factor was irresistible. Because there is so much false information online, there are now websites, such as Snopes and Factcheck, which exist specifically to find out if stories are true or not. So the next time you see a story that sounds too good to be true, at least you have somewhere to turn for verification before you spread false information to all your friends.

B Read the article. Find the words in italics in the article. Then check (✓) the meaning of each word.

- | | | |
|------------------------|---|--|
| 1. inaccurate | <input type="checkbox"/> not exact or true | <input type="checkbox"/> shocking or disgusting |
| 2. satirical | <input type="checkbox"/> humorously critical | <input type="checkbox"/> completely factual |
| 3. reputation | <input type="checkbox"/> hurtful news about someone | <input type="checkbox"/> public opinion of someone |
| 4. massive | <input type="checkbox"/> small | <input type="checkbox"/> very large |
| 5. irresistible | <input type="checkbox"/> hard to prove | <input type="checkbox"/> hard to fight against |
| 6. verification | <input type="checkbox"/> proof of truth | <input type="checkbox"/> another opinion |

C PAIR WORK Discuss these questions.

- Do you think you would have believed the story about selfies and head lice?
- Do you think the creation of the story was justified or not?
- Who do you think is most responsible for the story being so popular?
- Do you think there should be a penalty for spreading false information? If so, what should it be?

D GROUP WORK Have you ever read a story that turned out to be false? How did you find out the truth?
